

The Pavilion. A Preview...

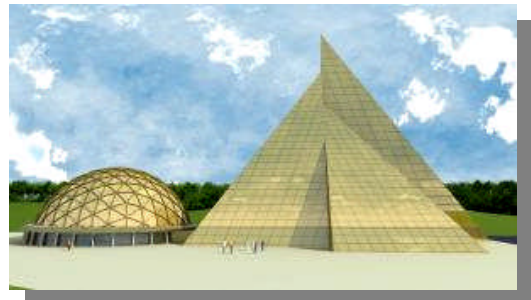

“Live Long. Live Smart. Celebrate life.”™

“It’s not good enough to be ‘pretty good’ at everything anymore. You have to be the most of something now. You have to be practically radical.”

Bill Taylor, Fast Company Cofounder, “How to Achieve Greatness”, Club Business Int’l, Jan. 2012

What if...

You could create a place like no other... a next generation health and lifestyle center that, like the great World’s Fairs, was built to inspire; to impact every facet of life.

And what if...

You included an advanced Bio-Center which used high-tech, bio-energetic tools to optimize health, relieve chronic illness, and boost athletic performance... And to that you added a modern gym and healing spa for fitness, grounding, and relaxation. And you not only showcased the best of science and humanity like the World’s Fairs, you delivered the goods – with a life sciences center, retail store, and seminar program – focused on smart, healthy, and sustainable living.

And What if...

You added in a dash of country club with a (WiFi) member lounge, an organic café and wine bar, and an exclusive, sun-drenched member pool, so wasn’t just about health and smart living; it was also about quality of life; connecting with friends and nourishing the soul.

And what if you gave people access to all this for about the cost of a monthly gym membership; and the architecturally striking facility – modular and green, included for-profit and non-profit components. And what if business took off – impacting people’s lives beyond all expectations?

Introducing...

The Pavilion – a ‘Practically Radical’ idea whose time has come.

The first Pavilion is slated to open in the Washington, DC metro area in 2013, with expansion nationwide thereafter. To learn more about investment or giving opportunities, call or email Pavilion Cofounder and CEO, Jim Grapek.

(Images for example only)